Selection of the senior resident superior court judge

GS 7A-41.1(b) provides that generally the senior resident superior court judge is the regular resident superior court judge in the district with the most continuous service as a regular resident superior court judge. If two judges in the district have equal seniority, the oldest is the senior resident.

There is one exception to the senior resident being chosen based on seniority. The chief justice chooses the senior resident for a judicial district which consists of a single county, has a set of districts within the district, and is a county “specified in law as the sole proper venue for certain actions.” Superior Court District 10, Wake County, is the only district which meets that definition. For that district, the chief justice chooses the senior resident who serves at the pleasure of the chief.

Duties assigned by the North Carolina Constitution

Appointment to fill vacancy in clerk’s office [Art. IV, § 9] — If the office of clerk of court becomes vacant the senior resident appoints someone to fill the position until the next regular election. Also see GS 7A-100.

Appointment of magistrates [Art. IV, § 10] — The senior resident appoints magistrates from nominations submitted by the clerk of court. Also see GS 7A-171.

Removal of clerk [Art. IV, § 17(4)] — The senior resident may remove a clerk of court for misconduct or mental or physical incapacity. Also see GS 7A-105.

Three-judge panel for constitutional challenges [GS 1-267.1(b1)] — Any challenge to the facial constitutionality of a legislative act is to be heard in Wake County by a three-judge panel of
