

809.114 MEDICAL MALPRACTICE PERSONAL INJURY DAMAGES -
PERMANENT INJURY - ECONOMIC DAMAGES.

(Use for medical malpractice cases filed on or after 1 October 2011. For all other cases, use N.C.P.I.-Civil 810.14.)

(This document has an attachment: N.C. Gen. Stat. § 8-46 Mortality Table. Directions for accessing the attachment appear at the end of this document, immediately above the endnotes.)

NOTE WELL: Be mindful of which category of permanent injury the plaintiff seeks for the purpose of segregating non-economic damages (pain, disfigurement, loss of use of part of the body) from economic damages (medical expenses, earnings) in the issue sheet. Giving this instruction and N.C.P.I.-Civil 809.115 (permanent injury/non-economic) may be necessary.

When this instruction is given, you also should give N.C.P.I.-Civil 810.16 ("Future Worth in Present Value").

Economic damages for personal injury also include fair compensation for permanent injury¹ incurred by the plaintiff as a proximate result of the negligence of the defendant. An injury is permanent when any of its effects will continue throughout the plaintiff's life.² These effects may include [medical expenses] [loss of earnings] [state any other element of economic damages supported by the evidence] to be incurred or experienced by the plaintiff over his life expectancy. (For purposes of this determination, you are not to consider [pain and suffering] [scarring and disfigurement] [(partial) loss (of use) of part of the body] [loss of consortium] [state any other element of non-economic damages supported by the evidence]. I will instruct you about those types of damages separately.)

However, the plaintiff is not entitled to recover twice for the same element of damages. Therefore, you should not include any amount you already have allowed for [medical expenses] [loss of earnings] [state any other element of economic damages supported by the evidence] because of permanent injury.

Life expectancy is the period of time the plaintiff may reasonably be expected to live. [The life expectancy tables are in evidence.] [The court has taken judicial notice of the life expectancy tables.]³ They show that for someone of the plaintiff's present age, (state present age), his life expectancy is (state expectancy) years.

In determining the plaintiff's life expectancy, you will consider not only these tables, but also all other evidence as to his health, his constitution and his habits.⁴

² "Where, however, the injury is subjective and of such a nature that laymen cannot, with reasonable certainty, know whether there will be future pain and suffering, it is necessary, in order to warrant an instruction which will authorize the jury to award damages for permanent injury, that there 'be offered evidence by expert witnesses, learned in human anatomy, who can testify, either from a personal examination or knowledge of the history of the case, or from a hypothetical question based on the facts, that the plaintiff, with reasonable certainty, may be expected to experience future pain and suffering, as a result of the injury proven.'" Gillikin v. Burbage, 263 N.C. 317, 326, 139 S.E.2d 753, 760-61 (1965) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted); Littleton v. Willis, 205 N.C. App. 224, 231-32, 695 S.E.2d 468, 473 (2010) (finding error in trial court's instruction to jury on permanent injury where the plaintiff "did not present any medical expert testimony that [p]laintiff, 'with reasonable certainty, may be expected to experience future pain and suffering, as a result of the injury proven,'" as an instruction on permanent injury would have required jurors to speculate on how long they believed plaintiff's pain would continue in the future) (citation omitted).

3 Ordinarily the "mortality tables" will be in evidence. However, since they are statutory (see N.C. Gen. Stat. § 8-46), "judicial notice" of them may be taken. See Chandler v. Moreland Chem. Co., 270 N.C. 395, 400, 154 S.E.2d 502, 506 (1967); Rector v. James, 41 N.C. App. 267, 272, 254 S.E.2d 633, 637 (1979). The annuity tables (see N.C. Gen. Stat. § 8-47) are different and should not be admitted in evidence. As pointed out in Hunt v. Wooten, 238 N.C. 42, 76 S.E.2d 326 (1953), the annuity tables have nothing to do with the establishment of life expectancy and it would be error to admit them for this purpose. Where the life expectancy to be determined is that of the plaintiff, his age is to be measured as of the date the jury charge is given.

4 A failure to include this sentence, or its equivalent, is reversible error. See generally Kinsey v. Kenly, 263 N.C. 376, 139 S.E.2d 686 (1965); Harris v. Atl. Greyhound Corp., 243 N.C. 346, 90 S.E.2d 710 (1956).
